

Virtual CE Webinar

The Ethics of End of Life Care:

Professional Boundaries to Consider

Wednesday, December 16

2-4 pm

Hosted by

Register Now at:
bit.ly/NewCourtlandCE

As long-term care professionals, we are constantly facing the issues surrounding end of life. It is important that we learn to protect ourselves and our profession by being aware of the ethical issues that arise in these situations, the boundaries that should be kept, and how to approach this issue in a professional, caring and practical manner.

At the end, participants will be able to:

- Evaluate case studies about ethical issues and boundaries at the end of life.
- Become familiar with professional boundaries, why they are important and how to maintain them in your professional work.
- Identify ways to maintain professional boundaries & leverage other long-term care professionals, such as eldercare attorneys, in helping to maintain those boundaries.

OUR CE WEBINARS OFFER 2 CREDITS FOR SOCIAL WORKERS, NURSING HOME ADMINISTRATORS, ASSISTED LIVING ADMINISTRATORS, CASE MANAGERS AND RN'S.

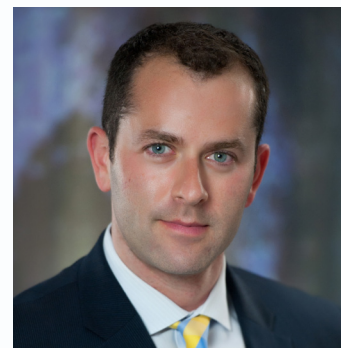

To receive your CE certificate, include professional license ID# upon registration

This CEU seminar is hosted by Rothkoff Law Group. CEUs are awarded by NASW-NJ. NASW-NJ has approved this seminar for social workers. Rothkoff Law Group will give you a certificate of attendance at the end of this seminar. However, your CEU credit certificate will come directly from NASW-NJ via email. Please ensure that we have your current email on file so you may receive your certificate.

Webinar Speaker:

Bryan J. Adler, Esq., CELA

is a Certified Elder Law Attorney (CELA) through National Elder Law Foundation. He dedicates his practice to advising and counseling clients in the areas of elder law, life care planning, asset protection, veterans' benefits, estate planning, guardianships and long-term care advocacy.

IF YOU HAVE QUESTIONS, PLEASE CONTACT:

Alison Corter, Director of Business Development By Phone: 215-951-4210 By Email: acorter1@newcourtland.org
NewCourtland | 6950 Germantown Ave. | Philadelphia, PA 19119 | 1-888-530-4913 | NewCourtland.org